THE PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS.

Mr. Perrens of Goya published in our issue of last Thursday one of the most interesting papers on the Locust question that it has ever been our good fortune to read. He says very truly that the public do not seem to grasp the magnitude of the question, and this reminds us of the project of Dr. Pellegrini to call out all the male population of the Republic to fight this tremendous and destructive enemy.

A dense column of locusts, says Mr. Perrens, passed recently over Goya, having a compact front of 50 miles, travelling 12 miles an hour before a strong north wind, and taking 2 days to pass. If we consider such a column in the nature of a carpet it would suffice to cover 600 square miles per hour, or a country as large as England in 4 days. Now we know that (in Cyprus) a ton of locusts contains 11,000,000, and if we suppose ten tons per acre the people of England (that is all male and female adults) would have to kill 110,000,000 locusts per head in order to destroy the "manga" that passed recently over Goya.

But, when we come to take into account that besides the column which came from Brazil and passed over Goya there is another which has just devastated 40,000 acres of vineyards in Mendoza, besides detachments in Santa Fé and the province of Buenos Ayres we begin to realize what a terrible enemy threatens this country, one against which diplomacy and ironclads are equally unavailing.

The crops of the republic, according to the safest computation represent a value of 90,000,000 gold dollars or £18,000,000 sterling, but if is quite possible that in one short week the locusts should destroy every square inch of the 8,200,000 acres under cultivation. Heaven preserve us from such a calamity, and send a strong westerly wind to blow them into the middle of the Atlantic. The worst feature in the case is the fact that their visitations are becoming more frequent of late years. We have searched the early records of the River Plate, in the collection of De Angelis, and find no mention of locusts. Nor do they seem to have given trouble in the Rosas epoch, perhaps because tillage was then unknown.

Our earliest recollection of them goes back about 35 years, when a "manga" of them descended on this province, so voracious that they ate up the thatched roofs of the ranchos, for in those days all the Irish and Scotch estancieros lived in mud huts. A long interval ensued before they appeared again, and it came to be understood that they might be looked for once every seven years. In 1865 they destroyed the crops of the San Carlos colony, Santa Fé, leaving 5,000 industrious French and Italian settlers so poor that subscriptions were collected for them in Buenos Ayres at all the church doors.

In his letter Mr. Perrens mentions that he first saw them in 1870, and since then in nine different years they have visited Corrientes Two years ago they destroyed the maize crop of Santa Fé, and at present some fears are entertained about the wheat crop. It would seem that as tillage advances in the republic the plague of locusts becomes every year more formidable. Is not this another reason why people should give more attention to flocks and herds, to the improvement of breeds of cattle and sheep, for which industry Argentina possesses advantages unequalled in Australia or any other country.

Meantime it is manifestly the duty of Government to appoint a special committee of practical and scientific men to study and report upon the best measures to be undertaken, not to destroy the locusts, but to check and diminish their ravages. Half-a-dozen men, such as Professor Kyle, Eduardo Olivera, Estanislao Zeballos, Mr. Perrens, Leonardo Pereyra and Mr. Pennington, could collect the necessary information and suggest to the National Government what remedies they think are feasible.

THE NATION'S BALANCE SHEET.

IMPORTANT STATE PAPER.

Yesterday the Finance Minister disclosed the state of the National Ledger to the President of the Republic in a note which we condense as follows:—

Nov. 25th

Most Excellent Sir—

I call your attention to the following Balance Sheet furnished me by the Accountant General.

When you took office the funds available, in the Bank of the Nation and elsewhere, were:— $2,417,000 paper and $17,000 gold, including $412,000 paper in bills for internal taxes.

At same date the debts due were: $19,954,000 in paper and $3,419,000 gold as follows:—

	Paper $
Treasury Bills.....	2,172,000
Various debts.....	16,782,000
	19,954,000
	$ gold
Treasury Bills.....	1,455,000
Various debts.....	1,964,000
Total.....	3,419,000

Your Excellency will see that the service of the Home and Foreign Debt is not included in the foregoing figures, nor the railway guarantees; and I have only included in the gold debts the half of $1,999,000 due for the port works, and which must be paid in gold coin, and the rest in 1882 Bonds, a very onerous way of payment, as the Bonds are given at their market price, which means gold paid down, the State losing the difference between the market price and the face value of the Bonds.

There is a wilderness of figures on the Credit side of the account, but they are worth next to nothing as prospective assets and nothing at all as immediate ones.

The Doubtful Assets are $78,700,000 paper and $4,197,000 gold, but nine-tenths of these enormous figures are represented by credits on the National Bank, which the Law for its liquidation places in the foruth list in order of payment, which simply means a total loss.

The assets under the head of Bonds are $31,000,000 ;but most are the Bonds of the Nation itself, or guaranteed by it; and all these Bonds and the shares of the Central Argentine Railway which figure as assets are in the hands of the creditors of the State for debts still due.

Neither now nor at any future time can we count on these to pay what the State owes on demand.

The Balance Sheet of the Nation shows that it owes, at home and abroad:—

In paper..... $ 48,700,000
In gold..... $407,000,000

I must add to these other figures besides those of the "Contaduria," to show what the Nation will have to face in Debts and Guarantees in 1893.

In the next year's Budget there should figure for Home Debt, guarantees etc. —

	$
In paper.....	1,514,000
In gold.....	25,200,000

I need not tell Y. E. that it is an utter impossibility for the country to pay such an amount in cash. Most of this service is now paid in Moratorio Bonds; which means that we are daily paying our debts with anew and more onerous debt, a disastrous system that must be put an end to, to which end, by your orders, I have taken the preliminary steps.

There is another part of the Public Debt on which the service is not paid; the 4½ per cent Bonds to guarantee the note issue of the Free Banks, and for which the Nation is responsible.

There is another debt on the Nation's shoulders no less important, viz., the note issue, which has only the Bonds referred to (another debt of the nation) as guarantee.

On October 31st of this year the total issue of notes was:—

Large...	$273,233,000
Small...	9,700,000
Total..	$282,933,000

The recent rapid appreciation of this large amount of notes is evidence of the confidence of the people in the future of the country; but it must not be forgotten that the greater the appreciation of the bank notes, the larger will be the amount of gold coin required for their conversion, and the greater the difficulty in giving a fixed value to the paper money.

President Pellegrini held out a hope of converting the paper money at 2½ to one; and it was an equitable rate. Seven eighths of the note issue has been given to the public at various rates of depreciation. To redeem these notes at par would not be equitable, even if possible.

If conversion is to be attempted at par, God only knows how long inconversion must still last.

I think President Pellegrini's rate (2½ to one) is about the right one, and I beg to submit it to Y. E's consideration.

THE BOLIVAR FARMS.

DECREE OF WHOLESALE EVICTION.

The decree issued yesterday by the Government of La Plata in the above matter amounts to confiscation of the hundred and odd farms held for some years by German and Italian settlers in what is termed the Egido of Bolivar. These poor fellows bought their lands from Government, but it often happens in this country that Government titles give the purchaser no security, quite the contrary.

The authorities of Bolivar cast a covetous eye on the cultivated farms in question, and found a pretext to lay hold of them in the fact that some of the instalments due by the settlers were unpaid. The farmers were simply in arrear, and the Government had considerately given them longer time, because the first years had proved unfortunate ones for their little crops. This generosity on the part of the Government was not out of place, seeing that a general Moratorio was the order of the day.

How or when the Municipality of Bolivar stepped into the shoes of the Government we know not. One fine morning an army of camp police and Nat. Guards proceeded to evict the honest tillers of the soil, and met with so sturdy a resistance that, leaving the Commissary killed and the Justice of Peace wounded, they took to their heels. Then the Provincial Government apparently disavowed the acts of the municipality, and the official journals published a report by the Fiscal in favor of the persecuted farmers.

We naturally expected that each of the Municipal members and others who had a part in the "razzia" would have been condemned to penal servitude for two or three years, and that their "pulperias" would be sold to indemnify the farmers. Nothing of the kind. The Government of La Plata, who suffered decrees of execution by creditors a few weeks ago for sums as low as 1,000 shinplasters, comes forward with a decree confiscating the "chacras" of Bolivar in favor of the municipality of that town.

Meantime it is not at all clear that this decree will be allowed to go unchallenged. The National Government, the Foreign Ministers, the Federal Tribunal and the voice of public opinion will probably be heard to protest in the loudest manner. But even if all these be silent the German and Italian farmers will not give up their little homesteads without a sharp fight.

"OURS."

Summer was waning; already the rich, glorious, colours of Autumn were softly spreading over our English hills and valleys, making all the country golden and brown and purple, and the leaves that had fallen formed wonderful persian-like carpets in the woods,only they looked softer, and their harmony was rarer. Sir Alexander and Lady Shendryn were still at their country seat; the last of their summer guests with them. Angus MacAlister, of course, was there, a handsome young soldier, fluttering mothlike near his beautiful cousin Blanch Hay. Mary Netly—Lady Shendryn's "companion—seemed if anything to be livelier and more. The wealthy brewer Hugh Chalcot was also one of the privileged, but he seemed a shade more sarcastic and much more cynical.

"Every gate is barred with gold and opens but to golden keys."

He thoroughly realized his position in society.

The topic uppermost in everybody's mind, however, was one, or perhaps I should say topics were two, common to all sorts and conditions of humanity. They were no greater or less two atoms of this same humanity, very red in the face, very plump about the limbs, very limp all over. They were called the twins, and the father was called Jones, sometimes Sergeant Jones. They had lived for the space of 24 hours and,thinking nothing, and troubling less, about the world, were comparatively happy in being in it.

In contradistinction to these unvarnished little mortals there appears before our admiring gaze a no less personage than a Russian Prince, phenomenally rich, if somewhat old and in search of a wife; this was indeed a dangerous rival for our poor Angus MacAlister.

"A penniless lad,
"Wi' lang pedigree."

But passing from these social problems of country life, that are forcing themselves upon us, let us glance at the political aspect of England in this year of 1854.

The atmosphere is heavy, and mutterings and threatenings of war are ahead and echoed on all sides. The press is clamorous with its latest details of Cabinet meetings. Peace has ruled triumphant in Europe since Waterloo had purchased for England the right to proclaim it in 1815 Nearly 40 years have passed and our enemies of that period are our friends of to-day. A Parisian audience has stood up and cheered the Duke of Wellington in a French theatre. The Great Duke is now no more, however. Time has wrought its changes. England and France have allied themselves against their common enemy. Russia has led her army a step too far into the Danubian principalities, finds out her mistake and endeavours to step back. It was too late, however; the allies have landed on the shores of the Crimea and they open the campaign with a victory at the River Alma. Flushed with their triumph, they pass forward to lay siege to Sebastopol, but their forces are insufficient for the task and the besiegers become in their turn besieged. Cold and disease join forces with the Russians and prove more fatal than sword or cannon ball to the British and French armies. Fresh calls are made upon the army at home. Volunteers come forward, and the weary fighters long for their assistance.

Our friends of "Shendryn Park" are now comfortably esconced in their town house. Comfortably? Well, hardly! for there is hurrying to and fro. Packing and farewells are now the order of the day. Sir Alexander and Angus MacAlister are bound for the Crimea. The moment of "Farewell" has come and Blanch is besieged by her lovers. Not yet, however, is the answer given. The bugle calls, the drums roll, and the old tune of "Annie Laurie" sounds sad in our ears. Many a one this morning marches out to his grave, and yet his step is firm, his eye clear, and his voice rings with hope as he bids his loved one goodbye, but the old country knows his face no more for ever.

* * * *

The uncertainty has been too much for us, we have had to follow our friends more closely than by reading the latest war despatches. And here we are upon a battlefield! Is this then, where England's glory is won! Are these wild looking, unshaven, ragged, starving creatures England's soldiers that we see marching, so spick and span, in companies, through our streets. Are these wild, iron-willed, fiercely strong men the same indulgent ones we see at home and cry

"Chuck 'im out, the brute!"

Yes, the same men.

But its "thin red line of 'eroes" when the guns begin to shoot. Let us look into this but and see who own this palatial winter residence, with numberless advantages for ventilation. Who are these three officers, for surely they are such. They are only Sir Alexander, Angus, and Chalcot, this latter having joined as a volunteer. He has been wounded. His two friends are going "to the front" in a few minutes to return when they can! They all disappear. A battle has to be fought and won this night.

But who is this? and what is here? Ladies upon a battefield. Yes, and if we mistake not, Lady Shendryn, Blanch and Mary. In the distance the sound of artillery announces the business of the hour is being done bravely and honestly. Hurried steps outside the hut, voices and alarm on all sides. Figures step inside, English uniform and Russian, both are there. But who the victors and who the vanquished—whether the ladies are all taken prisoners and linger on in captivity; whether Blanch, sacrificing herself, purchases their freedom from Prince Perovsky, or whether she marries Angus MacAlister; how Mary Netley is captured; how Hugh Chalcot is led into bondage are all questions which we will see answered on Monday night, and our surmises will be completely fulfilled or as completely contradicted.

THE CALLE BULNES MURDER.

On Thursday, Meardi, the murderer, was conveyed to the Chacarita for the purpose of witnessing the disinterment of his wife's remains. Several people who had known the murdered woman were also taken to the Cemetery to identify the remains. The scene was a peculiar one. In the first place people seeing the police in carriages immediately guessed that Meardi was being conveyed to the Cemetery and followed the carriages to the Chacarita. Passengers in the Rural Trams jumped out of the cars, and before long there was quite a crowd of people, impelled no doubt by a morbid curiosity.

The police carriages drove into the cemetery, the police alighting, while Meardi remained hidden from the public view. When the grave of the unfortunate woman was reached, Meardi was compelled to alight He seemed indifferent to the scene around him. He did not appear to see the crowd, whose indignation was beginning to swell. The remains of Margarita were disinterred and the body covered with a sheet was placed under a tent. The body was much swollen. The face was uncovered, and the Judge ordered the women who had known the victim to advance and identify the body before them. Then Meardi's turn came. He turned pale, shuddered and covered his face with his hat. He could not make up his mind to look at his victim's countenance. Finally a commissary took his hat from him and pushed him towards the body. "Is that your wife?" asked the Judge. "It is," replied the fiend. This formality of the law having been fulfilled, the party proceeded to return. In the meantime the indignation of the crowd had reached a high pitch. They called on the police to give up the murderer, whom they wanted to tear to pieces. The police, however, managed to shield the murderer, who, pale and trembling, asked when his trial would take place, expressing the hope that he would be shot.

The trial will be concluded within a few days, and the Judge may possibly grant the wish expressed by the murderer himself.

ARGENTINE RAILWAYS.

Those investors who held on pluckily to their holdings in Argentine railway stocks and bonds now look like reaping the reward of their splendid confidence, and, unless we are altogether mistaken, it will be a rich reward that will fall to their lot after another few years. Several reports have recently been issued affording particulars with regard to the working during the twelvemonth ending June 30th last, or for the first six months In all instances the comparison is decidedly favourable. No one, indeed, who takes up the Buenos Ayres Great Southern report and examines it dispassionately can doubt that this magnificent property is now rapidly emerging from its troubles, and in the course of time will remunerate investors on much the same lavish scale as in the past. Gross receipts may have fallen off as compared with the previous year, but all the same the document contains unmistakable evidence of returning prosperity. Out of £956,630 received gross in gold no less than £560,253 was passed to net revenue, the ratio of working expenses having been reduced from 47 to 41 per cent. A line which can be efficiently operated at this low percentage need not occasion its owners many pangs. At present, in all probability, over 60 per cent. of the gross earnings are being carried to profit and loss account, seeing at what rate the company's revenues are again mounting up. If expenses could be reduced as shown at a period when receipts were falling off, what may we not expect now, when almost every week testifies to a handsome traffic augmentation? Argentina, it must be remembered, is no longer a decaying quantity. Her trade, both internal and external, is now steadily reviving, and during last month 8110 immigrants landed from steamers at Buenos Ayres, and it is notorious that many Italian workpeople who quitted Argentina during the height of the crisis have retraced their steps, confident that business is now re-established on a sound and progressive basis.

That it is so to some extent we know from a dozen internal evidences. Even during the year ended June last the Great Southern carried 243,000 more passengers than in 1891. When the dismal results secured in the second half of 1891 are taken into account, this exhibit becomes a good one, we maintain. Although the passenger receipts in gold fell off by 15 per cent., there was a gain of 12 per cent. in the numbers transported, and from the Buenos Ayres Western Railway we have similar testimony. Whilst the "takings" dropped by 14 per cent, the numbers rose by 21 per cent. The marked expansion in both these companies' grain traffic is another feature which no prudent investor will disregard at the present juncture. On the "Southern" the tonnage rose from 81 to 133, and on the "Western" from 283 to 315. The latter road, as a fact, enlarged its gross tonnage by nearly 4 per cent., the wool traffic having increased by about 46 per cent, whilst on both systems the carriage of fencing-posts has assumed important dimensions.

If currency depreciation has occasioned serious misery in some respects, the cloud has not been without its silver lining. Both produce exporters and estancieros have found their advantage in the national misfortunes, and their enlarged profits have led them to take far more land into cultivation. To one and all of the Argentine railways this revolution will presently mean greatly increased traffic, and when the proper time comes for putting up tariffs, the "Southern," "Western" and "Rosario" will reap golden harvests. It is an utter fallacy, of course, to attempt to estimate the intrinsic value of Argentine railway properties from a mere juxtaposition of the gold receipts in one year and the next. With business entirely upset, and with the currency depreciated to nearly one-fourth of its face value, this method—the popular one—is eminently delusive. To arrive at the truth, or anywhere near it, we must recollect that, as in Brazil, the exchange may suddenly mount up by leaps and bounds, and earnings now producing a pound, or less, net may presently be producing thirly shillings or more.

That we are not taking a too sanguine view of the situation is proved by the Buenos Ayres and Rosario accounts. In this case we have results for the first half of 1892, and they thoroughly deserve careful consideration, difficult though it be to draw any fair deduction from the operations of a railway which has rather more than doubled its open mileage during the twelvemonth. In any case, however, we have it in evidence that the working ratio has declined from 51 to 47 per cent., the gross receipts having increased by 20 per cent. The report is a poor one, inasmuch as £20,000 has had to be withdrawn from the reserve fund in order to make up the amount required for debenture and preferential charges, but what, we ask, is likely to be the position even six months hence? It seems almost a foregone conclusion that the "Rosario" Company will earn its fixed charges without again having to rely upon its reserve funds; whilst any further progress in the right direction would permit of an adequate sum being placed to the maintenance and renewal funds.

What the actual possibilities of the situation are is proved by the Central Argentine circular, issued yesterday. In the first six months of the present year the gross receipts rose 11 per cent., whilst from the 1st July to the 9th October the increase was no less than 60 per cent.—Money.

THE NEW GOLD FIELD.

The Governor of Sandy Point has sent to the Government a note, of which the following is a translation, on the gold discovery in Tierra del Fuego:—

Sandy Point, Oct. 17th.

Sir,

I had purposed delaying this report until I had ascertained personally what is taking place in the southern half of this territory, but the exaggerated reports published in some of the papers to hand from Santiago and Valparaiso about the gold washings in the southernmost islands to Tierra del Fuego, induce me to give you some information respecting those places and the industry which has sprung up there, in order that if you deem it to be advisable to do so you may publish it so that our countrymen in Valparaiso, may not be induced by those incorrect reports to plunge into risky enterprises to their own pecuniary loss and the discredit of the colony.

According to information obtained from the most recent visitors to Lennox and Navarino Islands, there has been taken out up to the present date from 1,000 to 1,200 kilograms of gold.

There are on the islands about 700 miners, and the results they obtain appear to be far from brilliant or remunerative. The hard-ships are without number, work has to be carried on day and night, struggling against the water which fills the holes and against the inclemency of the climate; the most robust abandon the mines, in many cases without having obtained any reward for their labour.

The richest deposits have been found on Lennox Island, but they did not last long and are now exhausted.

The geological formation of Lennox Island is identical with the flat part of Tierra del Fuego, and of Eastern Patagonia, and just as in them, the gold is found in sedimentary strata and gravel, but in small quantity.

It appears that on the island in question, the action of the sea had detached and accumulated in some parts of the beach quantities of the precious metal, and hence the great finds of those who were lucky enough to strike these deposits.

These pockets are exhausted, but many of the miners remain in the hope of finding others, some are washing sand but with poor results, while others are working at the sedimentary strata but with no better fortune. The greater number have gone to Navarino and Hoste Island, where they are now working.

The greater number of the miners are Austrians, young and robust fellows and inured to hard labour. In general, the result obtained is one gram of gold a day (34 hours of incessant labour) per man. The method employed is very primitive: a wooden trough of two or three metres in length, covered with a piece of carpetting over which they run the dirt, the gold remaining in the hollows between the threads.

I think I may safely assert that the auriferous deposits in question are insufficient to remunerate the labour of the numerous miners already on the ground, who are not obtaining sufficient gold to pay their expenses, and the arrival of more people would only make matters worse.

The moment is not distant when, owing to the excessive number of men on the ground and the bad results of their labours, we shall have to lament occurrences which will demand the vigorous intervention of the authorities. In view of this and being desirous of forming an exact idea of those parts, I shall start in a few days to visit them.

THE BATEMAN LEGACY.

Nov. 25th.

Mr. Editor,

You unceasingly refer to the Drainage and Water Supply Works of this city in terms of cynical jocularity. In this I do not join issue with you, as all that you can say can never reveal the full black history of the financial side of these works. But is it not quite unjust to connect the name of an honourable gentleman and engineer with all the South American financial chicanery that has accompanied the manipulation of the funds, shares, &c., during the various stages of the works?

As an old resident from before the commencement of the works and a lover of fair play, I would like to see your paper take a higher view of the matter, and, so to speak, put the saddle on the right horse. That is, on the various Governments, Government officials, commissions, contractors, syndicates, &c., that have been able to interfere in the undertaking.

These are the true authors of the Legacy; and, if you must have a name, let it be say "The Drainage and Water-supply Legacy," for in this synonym no special blame is cast on the engineer, and it is not inferred that he alone is to blame (whitewashing the true offenders), as is implied in the name usually used by you.

Modern experience may perhaps be able to suggest some improvements on the first designs (but this is not for every quack to do), and does not this apply to all things.

No serious and responsible person finds serious engineering faults with the design; for evils that exist blame rather those who mismanage, and do not unwittingly sully the name of an honourable gentleman who is no longer with us, and perhaps one of the few honourable men connected with the affair.

Justice.

Ed. Note. We fully concur in testifying that Mr. Bateman was an honourable man, but the works have for 20 years gone by his name, and hence it is not easy to find a substitute for the term Bateman Legacy. It must be remembered that when the term was first used the Waterworks did not smell so badly as afterwards.

O'KILL.

Lomas de Zamora, Nov. 25.

Mr, Editor,

As a splendid opportunity has at last been given to mothers and children, to hear the renowned O'Kill, would you kindly inform me where the Zarzuela Theatre is situated and oblige.

A. Mother of Eight.

Ed. Note.—The Zarzuela Theatre can be found at Piedad 1444.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The plot of "Ours" will be found in another column. It is pretty much as our prophetic soul foretold yesterday. Now, let all those who are going to the Opera House on Monday night commit the whole thing to memory, so as to be able to thoroughly enjoy the play when they see it.

The Chamber of Deputies is still on the bad old road. Yesterday they voted the Bounty on Beetroot Bill "en general," and will, of course, vote it "en particular" also.

O'Kill holds the fort to-day; and the addition of "A Husband in Clover" to the bill of fare will cause the house to overflow. The automatons are in splendid health and spirits. Those who miss this occasion to give the popular E.L.S. a lift will pass the rest of their term in this vale of tears in bitter and unavailing regret.

In reply to the query in yesterday's issue, "when will promoters of charitable entertainments learn to fix admission fees within the reach of non-millionaires," the American Church, we learn, at its next entertainment will only charge $1.00 each.

The Anglo American Society will hold a general meeting this evening at 8.30 p.m., at 351 Maipu.

The weather was n't the thing yesterday; too hot, heavy and dull. The Bolsa gold Bulls looked particularly miserable, as if life had no further charms for them.

Whoever wants to learn Phonography should invest in Don Guillermo Parody's work on the subject, a very interesting little volume.

A couple of duels were spoken of yesterday. The mortal combatants are two members of Congress and two doctors. We hope nobody will bite the dust, as it is not as good eating as a juicy beefsteak.

Yesterday was the 7th anniversary of the death of ex-President Avellaneda, and many of the leading families of the city assisted at the solemn requiem service in San Ignacio church.

There will be a special collection tomorrow in the Scotch Church at both Services in aid ot the funds of the Church.

See notice from the Quilmes Cricket Club in another column.

The "Hermanas de Dolores" of Belgrano announce a splendid concert on 30th in the Catholic Club, by the Sociedad Benefico-Musical. Applications for invitations can be made at No 2129 Calle Cuyo.

Mr. James Oldham, son of Chevalier Oldham, was married, civilly, on Tuesday at Montevideo, to Miss Jessie Ritchie, daughter of the well known Saladerista of the Cerro: and the religious ceremony took place in the English Church on Wednesday, in presence of a large number of the friends of both families, many of them from this city. The presents to the bride were very numerous and costly. We offer the young and happy couple our warmest congratulations and best wishes.

A cricket match between the Buenos Ayres Western Railway and Flores Cricket Clubs will take place to-morrow on the Western Railway cricket ground at Tolosa. Train leaves Plaza Constitucion at 9 a.m. The following gentlemen comprise the Western Railway XI:— B J Baker (Csptain,) F Dore, A W Bannatyne, M A Halstead, E D Moffatt, F Foster, W P Schoppe, A J Avery, P Nolan, R M Clarke, F T Parkes.

Perhaps the agent of the steamer, or one of the passengers, if this should meet his eye, or the latter meet it, will kindly enable us to answer the following query:—

"Mr. Editor,

"Will you kindly inform me how many days the Dresden emigrant ship took to come from Ireland to the port of Buenos Ayres with emigrants four years ago? By so doing you will greatly oblige

"A. T."

Another supreme effort to raise a million loan is being made by the great and good President of B. O., this time with one of the local banks.

The Schools of Medicine are in a state of ferment about the examinations. We don't very well understand what all the row is about, but matters must be serious when the students hiss and hoot the Rector of the University as they did on Thursday.

If that scene at the Chacarita on Thursday, when the corpse of Meardi's wife was exhumed, had taken place in a certain Big Republic we know of, the infamous husband and assassin would have been lynched in three minutes. The people of this country are altogether too tame.

"How do you like married life, Emily?" "Oh, immensely." "Really?" "Yes' really. We've been married exactly a month now, and we've had ten quarrels, and I've got the best of it every time."

A young barrister, pleading a cause one day before Ellenborough, began with. "My unfortunate client, my lord" ——Ellenborough broke in—"There, sir, the Court is with you."

The Telephone is striding ahead, and we'll soon be able to talk under the sea to our London friends and tell them more than they appear to know of the "potentialities" and possibilities of this grand, vast and devil-may-care country. Just read this:—"Telephonic communication has been successfully opened between New York and Chicago, and a number of messages have been exchanged between the two cities. This line, which is considerably the longest that has ever been used with favourable results, is nearly 950 miles in length. The operator at the Chicago end of the wire assured the New York operator that he could hear his voice as distinctly as though he were standing close by him.—Herald.

In answer to one of the "pertinent interrogatories" in this column yesterday, a number of English retail houses request us to make known that they have considerably reduced their prices since the beginning of the month. The grocer who reduces his prices deserves encouragement, and will no doubt get it.

The "fiesta" in the Skating Rink on Thursday night was the essence of super-elegant success. The noise of the rollers was deafening, as some three hundred young swells and belles continued rolling round, while their papas, mammas, uncles, aunts and thirty-first cousins looked on. The air was a trifle too heavy with a mixture of all the scents that ever appeared on a toilet table, but this was, perhaps, a fault on the right side. In barbarous Europe skating is considered an exclusively winter amusement, but Argentine high-life has discovered that it is a cooling and refreshing exercise for the dog days. The worthy proprietor of the Rink is fairly coining money, and will soon be as rich as Jay Gould.

The Dinner-Concert at the Tigre Hotel on Thursday evening was a great success, and many families went from town to enjoy it. The "menu" and the music were both as good as they well could be, and dog cheap at the price, $5.

"Did the prisoner knock the prosecutor down with malice prepense?" "No, sir; he just 'it 'im on the 'ed with an humbereller." You misunderstand me, my friend. I wish to know if he attacked him with any intent?" "No sir; it were outside o' the tent." "Tut, tut! I simply wish to know whether it was a preconcerted affair or not? "No, sir; it were not a free concert. It were a circus." Then the Judge intervened for the protection of counsel.

We remind the Rt. Honble. the Lord Mayor that the pavement in the two best streets in town, Rivadavia and Callao, is in a Middle-Ages condition. The carriage horses groan and weep as they try to get over it, especially in Callao, near Santa Fé. Can nothing be done, my Lord Mayor?

A change, and a sweeping one, is required in the province of Buenos Ayres. The recent monstrous outrage at Bolivar, where several hard-working foreigners were ejected from their lands without rhyme or reason, has ended in the La Plata Government denying them any redress.

Another hitch in the electric lighting of the enchanted city of La Plata: company not paid, and again threatens to cut off the current.

Another corpse was removed from its vault in the Recoleta the other night. The Lord Mayor is furious, and intends to make it hot for the criminals—if he can catch them.

The Panama Star announces that cholera has broken out at Maracaibo, Venezuela. Let us hope that this ugly news may prove untrue.

No quo. of the Municipality on Thursday. Weather quite too hot for superfluous talk. Wise men.

For want of a quorum, the Extraordinary General Meeting of the Lomas A. A. C., which was advertised for last night, was adjourned till Tuesday, the 29th inst., at the same hour and place, when the members present will proceed with the business on hands.

Gold Premium.

FIRST RING..... 171.00%
SECOND RING..... 165.50%

The believers in a gold shortage sustained a heavy shock this morning and could hardly believe in the evidence of their senses as the chalk figures on the black board announced another heavy fall in the premium. The wiseacres were non-plussed; they had gauged the proportions of the speculation carefully since the beginning of the month, they had watched Tom, Dick, and Harry selling day by day, ring by ring; they knew how much every dealer had sold short, how much he had to buy back; they had carefully poised the pros and cons and calculated to a nicety the velocity of the speculative current for a fall and the deviation to be produced by the over-speculation of the bears; yet on every point they were mistaken, for a sudden tidal wave swept over the market this morning and swamped the wiseacres and their flimsy calculations. For the second time this month the "degringolade" made all feel as if the floor of the Bolsa were sinking from under their feet, but no panicky symptoms disturbed the irresistible and steady decline of gold; the fall swept like a mighty torrent through the hall, bearing down all obstacles.

The heavy drop in gold this morning is all the more significant as the market is on the eve of the settlement of the most speculative month of the year. There can be no doubt that big and small dealers have been plunging daily into the bearish eddy, that they have sold millions that must be bought back; yet the force of the current is so steady that speculation is quite defeated; the very bears were astounded to witness the weakness of the market this morning and they saw at a glance that even their over-speculation which in other epochs might have caused a bullish reaction, was now an insignificant item in the situation. The country and the market, not speculators, are driving down gold, and it is only to be regretted that the fall should be so rapid as to jeopardise many valuable and collective interests. Bulls and bears might as well try to turn the current of the River Plate with a pitch fork as attempt to oppose the current of the gold market to-day; bankers, merchants, capitalists, dealers, brokers, all are swept into the speculative eddy and borne off without more ado, whether they struggle or not. The secret of the situation resolves itself into the small word—confidence.

Over one and a half million gold dollars changed hands at the first ring in the midst of wild speculative excitement. The premium had clos

It seems that the rumours about the renting of the port of La Plata and the negotiations carried on by young Mr. Bemberg with the Provincial Government all amount to nothing. Last year, when in London, we learned from Dr. Plaza that very favorable offers were made to the Provincial Government by London bankers through him, and all the money required for the port works was offered on favorable terms, but since then we have heard nothing more on the matter, and Dr. Plaza complained that he could get no answers from La Plata to his telegrams.

The Bolsa liquidator, who in bye-gone years was one of our staff, must look out for the new law, as he will be held responsible for the tax on Bolsa liquidations which runs so :—

On 30,000$ liquidation.. 2%
On 100,000.. 5%
On 100,000 and upwards 10%

The "patente" of the brokers has been reduced from 250 to 150$, which is only fair, as the present tax on all brokers is most unequal. There are some brokers who could better pay 10,000$ per month "patente" than others 250$ per annum. The brokerage business is most uncertain. Some men who a few years ago ruled the roast to-day are doing nothing, and brokers, properly speaking, should be taxed, not all alike, but according to their incomes.

It would seem that we are again to have gold "conformes" of the banks current in the market. They certainly proved a very great convenience and always helped the market ; the tax on these "conformes" will, next year, be one per mil, which is quite stiff enough, and the banks of course will have to pay it.

All insurance companies will henceforward have to send into the Tax Office a list of their brokers; the aim of this is, we suppose, to make the tax reach them, as hitherto, although we have in the market a phalanx of insurance brokers, the tax-man complained he could never reach them, unless he wanted to insure his life or his furniture, a thing which tax-collectors rarely do. When this tax law is put through and finished we shall make up a summary to show how heavily the new taxes weigh on the private banks. In fact, as it at present stands, these heavy bank taxes affect the price of the shares in the market, as 10% of a bank's profits go to the Government, which in reality is making the Government a shareholder in the concern of which it collects the profits. The days of prosperous private banking in this market seem to have passed, and so much the worse for the market.

Sr. Franzoni, the well-known Bolsa broker of the leading firm of Berrone and Company, has again distinguished himself as correspondent of the Nacion in Italy ; his letter in that paper yesterday morning is not only exceedingly interesting, but goes to show how useful it is to the credit of this country to have a man like Franzoni to represent it on those public occasions, of which he gives such an exact description in his letter. Zanardelli, Crispi, Cavalotti, Fortis, and Rudini all know him, and all pay him every attention ; he is invited everywhere and he assists at all the grand political banquets, for which the modern Italian politicians are becoming so famous. When Mr. Franzoni returns to B. Ayres the Bolsa will certainly give him a welcome which he merits, and the brokers will gallantly gather from the flower-sellers in the atrio of the Bolsa a choice wreath to place on his brow when he resumes his well-known place at the ring.

The new tax law passing through the Deputies has a steady aim against private banks and against capital. All gold and paper deposits in the private banks and deposits of securities will be subject to the new stamp law. Now, as many bank customers deposit for safe keeping Cedulas and other rotten stocks, which they dream may yet resume their quondam value, we throw out the hint that the sooner they withdraw them from the bank the better.

Mr. Christopher Hill, manager of the Pacific Railway, was greatly censured in London for the purchase of the land alongside the water-works for the station and deposits; but our colleague the Review of the River Plate very ably defends Mr. Hill, and we are so entirely of accord with the remarks that we willingly make room for them. The land cost the company £270,000 sterling Our colleague says :—

"Will anybody believe that a London Board of Directors would allow their local manager to buy land for a terminal station, without submitting plans, details, price, etc, discussing them, referring them to their consulting engineer, asking questions, receiving reports, etc., "ad infinitum.,,

"We have not the smallest doubt that the General Manager, in this case, will be able to prove that the land was bought by the authority and with the full concurrence of the Board, after having gone through the usual programme as sketched above, and, we will, therefore, confine ourselves to a few remarks which occur to us in connection with the matter.

"This land, which, after all is said and done, is not a bog, as one shareholder suggests, nor useless for the purpose for which it was purchased, was offered to the Pacific Railway Company in 1889; other pieces of land were thought of, looked at and discussed; and after due deliberation, consultation and enquiry, the London Board decided to buy it, and we can here quote a public document in proof of this assertion. In January 1890, a letter was written by the general manager of the Pacific Railway to the then Minister of Interior, Dr. Quirno Costa, advising him that his Company proposed to acquire this land for the purpose of erecting a terminal station, and asking for the approval of the Government to this purchase.

"After due intervention of the Department of Engineers the following decree was issued by the Executive Power :—

"'The B. Ayres and Pacific Railway is hereby authorised to construct, in accordance with plans presented to and approved by the Executive, a principal station in this capital, in the district called Llambi, alongside the waterworks, on a piece of land of some 98,000 metres in extent ; it being understood that when the goods and passenger stations, on the lands reserved for this purpose by the Malecon Company have been built and opened, this station must be removed, and the Company will not, on this account, have any right to claim indemnification, and will be obliged to run the trains into the said Central Station."

"Both letter and decree were duly published. It is to be presumed, therefore, that the National Engineers approved of the site, and it is certain that the Board knew as much about it as anyone, and that, at the very least, if an error of judgment was committed in making the purchase, the London Board were every bit as much to blame as the general manager, and are acting most unfairly in shifting the entire responsibility on to his shoulders.

"And we may well ask how it is that, after treating for the land for months in 1889, and finally concluding the purchase in 1890, the error of judgment now attributed to the general manager should not have been discovered and made known until October 1892 ?

"It is very curious that this should only now be found out, after the greater part of the material for building the station, etc, has been sent out from England, and is lying in B. Ayres."

Telegrams from Rio quote exchange on London at 13¼d. Exchange on Rio in this market was quoted to-day at 17$750.

There was another bearish shock in the gold speculation at the second ring. The degringolade was even more than in the morning and the excitement in the fall gathered such proportions that people in the street wondered at what was going on and rushed into the Bolsa to see the flare-up ; it turned out to be a flare-down in the gold premium, and the hubbub was tremendous, as the premium fell to 166¾, amid the yells of triumph of the bears. Over 14 million dollars changed hands ; about four hundred thousand dollars were sold for to-morrow : the price opened at 169¾, fell to 167¼, fluctuated for some time between the two extremes, till at a certain moment the speculative moorings appeared to snap and the whole market went down in a slump. Sales followed fast and furious at falling rates: when 166 ¾ was touched, the bears' yells could be heard on the other side of the Plaza: brokers rushed out with the news to the banks and merchants' offices whilst a crowd rushed in and clustered round the pillars and at the railings in the hall. All thought that bottom had been touched, but they were mistaken, for as the bell rang the close of the ring the marker chalked at 165¼ ¾ for to-morrow: the ring was a raging pandemonium at the time, and the crowd in the hall cheered to the echo as the quotation was put up. Half a million dollars were sold for the end of the month ; the premium opened at 169 per cent and closed at 166 per cent. The premium for end of December closed at 163 per cent and for the end of January at 161 ¾. The bearish triumph was complete; the market closed in a routed, broken-up condition, and the business of the day was wound up whilst operators talked of 150¾ premium for the morrow. Wool gold had much to do with the degringolade this evening. Stocks and shares were neglected in the midst of the gold excitement.

The following is a summary of the business effected at the second ring to-day :—

In view of the completion of the San Cristobal-Tucuman line, the Five-Lilles Co. have applied to Government for the reimbursement of the forfeit-money.

Advices from London confirm the improvement in the European wool market. There can be no doubt that the triumph of the American Democrats is the immediate cause of the improvement in wool.

For the last few days the wool business in the markets has been very heavy. Some firms have three and four men daily receiving the wools bought during the week.

Consignees congratulated Mr. Lix-Klett in the market to-day, as the London telegrams announcing a rise in wool prices confirm all that he has said and written since the beginning of the month.

Northern wools fetched high prices to-day. In the Central Produce Market fine wools were sold at 8.10$ for special North, 8.20$ for cross qualities. "Pasto fuerte" qualities from the West were sold at 5.80 and 6$. In the Plaza Constitucion a lot of cross qualities fetched 9 to 9.50$. The fall in gold, however, will affect prices to-morrow.

Wheat and maize are very weak. Best wheat in the market is quoted at 6.50$.

Messrs. G. Kelsey and Co. sold the following wools to-day :—

Kilos.	From	$
6,500	cross-Lincoln with 'carretilla'	Gandara 7.3
